

Please do not implement any regulations that would lessen the impact of Indiana's Telephone Privacy Law. This legislation is one that has had such a direct and positive impact on the quality of my family life and our personal time at home. Before this law became effective, my phone at home received apporxiamately five to ten calls per day from unwanted, unsolicited telemarketer calls. The calls would come through during the day and continue into the evening. Invariably, our family dinner would be interrupted by one of these calls. Since enactment of the Telephone Privacy law, I receive almost no unwanted phone calls. Being at home, which should be a haven from unwanted interruptions, is such a joy now that we are not constantly receiving unwanted calls. Indiana's law is very important to me in its current form. Our elected legislators have enacted a significant piece of legislation that benefits the citizens of Indiana and its impact should not be diminished or diluted. Thank you for considering my comment.
